

Greene Herb Gardens

Growers of Fine Seasonings

Greene, Rhode Island
February 6, 1963.

Dear Friends,

Saint Fiacre, our peaceful sixth century herbalist, wore a garland of rosemary on his head, and a sprig of holly on his spade, as he watched over us one Saturday. Every year, at Advent time, a few gardening friends come together to make wreaths and holiday greens. After three months, our wreath is still alive and lovely. Tender white roots of mint and marjoram grow in their bed of spagnum moss. Tender tips of thyme and santolina reach toward the light, as well as the glossy green leaves and cheery red fruit of the partridge berry. Tiny cones of hemlock nestle next to yew and box. Rue, the soft blue herb of grace is growing too. In the middle of our wreath, a honey-scented beeswax candle burns at teatime.

In winter, we are partial to Suntea, not because we like the flavor better than other Tinga Teas, but because Suntea is so pretty, with its flowers floating in their teacup lake, reminding us of summer and Cindy, gathering golden calendulas, red roses, yellow mullein, and none-so-pretty wild pansies.

If you are thinking of going to Grand Cayman Island for Sun and Sea, stay home and sip Suntea in the comfort of an applewood fire, with friends.

Would you like the recipe for cranberry-crim and Vienna cake? Write to us on a 4 penny postal and we'll send it to you, with a sample of Suntea.

Soon the Ames Bend acre of kale will be fresh and green again. We love kale soup, kale salad, kale butter on kale bread, and kale in cottage cheese. The other day we wore a kale lei, and Martha Stearns of Exeter said: "Did you enjoy your trip to Hawaii?"

Greetings from "every greene herb",

Mittie Arnold, Margaret Thomas and Family: Jim Kennedy, the eldest (86), Heinz Grotake, the youngest, Annie Woodmansee, Ethel Rader, Al Dyer, Peggy Cross, Bill Wyman, Gertrude Kingsley, Bobby and Robby.

Welcome, Visitors

The gardens have been open from 1.00 to 5.00 p.m., 365 days a year since 1942. From 5.00 a.m. to 1.00 we try to do the chores, bake breads, make beds, mail orders, water herbs. The air in these back woods is filled with aromatic peace and pleasure every season of the year, so come see us some June or January afternoon, or any afternoon between 1.00 and 5.00 p.m.

Where is Greene?

On the state map, the Village of Greene is a dot, 27 miles southwest of Providence; 27 miles north of Westerly, and 6 miles east of Connecticut, route 14.

From Providence, take route 6 to North Scituate Police Barracks, then left onto Rockland Road, which joins route 102; then right on 117 to Greene.

From Boston, take route 9, then left on 16, then left on 122, which joins 146, then right on 102, then right on 117 to Greene.

From the Village of Greene, take Hopkins Hollow Road past the Fire Station, over the railroad tracks (trains run twice a week), past the Library, and the Church; turn left at the little old one room school house, reduce your speed, keep going for a minute or two, till you come to the great white boulder and a tall pine tree, and a big mortar and pestle - and there you are, at the entrance, thinking: "H'm, nice air."

Telephone us if you are lost. Express 7-3652 or 397-3880.

Postpaid

Postpaid means "with postage prepaid". We hope you like the postpaid plan. It will eliminate a lot of red tape for both of us. When you buy herbs at the gardens and shop, the price is less than listed, and you save the cost of mailing. So, come East, friends from Seattle to San Pedro, and save on postage!

“Why don't you sell samplers?”, a friend from Chester inquired.
 “Samples of your beautiful green(e) herbs, like celery, salad herbs, and kale; samples of your tingling teas, like Suntea, and Spring Tea?” “We will”, we said, and here they are for your delight, and for ‘heisting your spirits’.

HERB SAMPLER

“What goes with what?”, you may ask. Well, here are 24 little bags of green(e) herbs for 24 sample seasonings. Open them! Put a pinch of parsley in the potatoes; a pinch of poultry seasoning in the gravy; and a pinch of Kale in the salad. Taste, season, sample..... season, sample, taste..... then note the family faces. Each Herb Sampler contains 3 bags each of:

Basil	Marjoram
Celery	Parsley
Kale	Poultry Seasoning
Salad Herbs	Meat Seasoning.

Price: — $ 1.00 per box, postpaid.

TINGA TEA SAMPLER

Tinga Teas are tingling, heart-warming teas for all the family. Ingrid and Michael, age 4 and 10, drink Tinga Tea every day. “We like it”, they say, and their father adds: “Man has been using herbs of the field and the wayside since the beginning, and Time has tested their excellence.” House Tea is the every-day family beverage; Sun Tea is sunshine enclosed in the flowers of summer; and if you are ‘cold’, drink Coltea, and think of the Coltsfoot, and its bright yellow flower that blooms when the swallows return. Each Tinga Tea Sampler contains 4 bags each of:

House Tea	Suntea
Coltea	Lemon Balm Tea
Spring Tea	Peppermint Tea

Price: — $ 1.00 per box, postpaid.

HERBS

Grown by GREENE HERB GARDENS.

Packed in 2 ounce capacity jars. Minimum order: 3 jars.

(Keep your little glass jars, and when they need re-filling, order re-fill packets at 45 ¢ p.p.)

The discerning cook appreciates the fine quality and wondrous flavor of freshly dried herbs. Here in the backwoods of the little village of Greene, Rhode Island, we sow the seed, box off the infant seedlings, transplant them to the fields at the proper time; weed, mulch and harvest them by hand; dry them with gentle heat — and then in fall, we package them and mail them to you for the enhancement of your meals.

Herbs are "simple, homely things" with a long pedigree and a wide versatility. Although every herb has its own affinity, such as basil for tomato, it is also used to season many other foods. Every country, every area within a country has its flavor preferences. Season to taste is a good guide. Begin with a little pinch ($\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. for four servings; more or less, according to taste). It is easier to add than to take out.

Try the following suggestions, then make your own combinations, and have fun with herbs!

BASIL

Fine in tomato cookery, potatoes, eggs, cheese, soups.

CELERY

Use our green celery leaves in soups and salads.

CHERVIL

Often called French parsley, chervil has a more delicate flavor. Use wherever you use parsley, in most everything.

DILL (LEAVES)

Green dill leaves are wonderful on broiled fish, buttered potatoes and cucumber dishes.

FENNEL (LEAVES)

Use the same as dill. Has an anise-like flavor.

KALE

Use in soups, salads, beef dishes, herb butter. A fine source of vitamin A.

LEMONBALM

Gives refreshing flavor to fruit salads and soups.

LOVAGE

The European maggi-herb, ideal in soups and broths.

MARJORAM

Belongs in bean and pea soups, roast pork, and chicken.

OREGANO

A favorite in Rhode Island clam chowder. Use in spaghetti and cheese, bean soup, butter sauce for fish.

PARSLEY

For soups, salads, meats, vegetables, eggs.

PEPPERMINT

Like lemon balm, gives freshness to fruit soups, salads, and dressings.

ROSEMARY

For pea soup, cheese dishes, salads. Gives chicken gravy the final touch. Our favorite: Rosemary biscuits with honey.

RUE

The herb of grace, is also the herb for fish.

SAGE

Has an affinity for pork. Sage cheese is an old-time favorite. Try a pinch in scrambled eggs.

SAVORY

Good with meat balls, bean dishes, steaks, and tomato dishes.

- SPEARMINT This cool herb is for mint sauce, peas and carrots; for fruit drinks and mint relish.
- TARRAGON Excellent with sword fish, lobster, cheese, and salads.
- THYME The favorite English seasoning, thyme goes with beef, lamb, chicken, and eggs. Good in any green salad.
- WATERCRESS Wonderful watercress grows in clear, running water, to be used in herb butter, and salads.

MIXED HERBS.

- HEART'S DELIGHT A blend of basil, marjoram, oregano, parsley, rosemary, tarragon and thyme. Heart's Delight, created especially for a "mended heart" friend on a low salt diet, gives soups and salads a wonderful flavor, and you will not miss that over-used mineral: salt. Makes a fine herb butter.

- MEAT SEASONING A blend of basil, kale, marjoram, oregano, parsley, rosemary, sage, savory, thyme. For beef, or lamb, or pork put a pinch "per patty" and be happy. Makes meat gravies good.

- POULTRY SEASONING Our blend of basil, celery, marjoram, parsley, rosemary, sage, savory, thyme. So fresh and green is our Poultry Seasoning, only a small amount is needed in gravies, stuffings, and stews. Just 1 teaspoonful to the average chicken. (Prefer the better flavored outdoor raised chickens.)

- SALAD HERBS A blend of basil, celery, marjoram, oregano, parsley, rosemary, tarragon, thyme. "My! But this salad is wonderful," commented a friend. "May I have the recipe?" "You don't need a recipe," we replied. "Just toss a generous three finger pinch of Salad Herbs into your favorite greens, and a little garlic flavored vinegar!"

A blend of bayleaf, basil, celery, marjoram, parsley, oregano, savory, thyme. "Indispensable in making a good soup or stew," writes a friend from the Berkshires. Toss a little bag into the soup, and be tastily delighted. Or, if you like, tear the bag open and use the ingredients loose.

For Better Gardening

FOR BETTER GARDENING, and to further the fertility of the soil, we recommend the use of B. D. Compost Starter, compost, earthworm compost, and potting soil, all prepared by the bio-dynamic method.

B. D. Compost Starter.

This is a mixture of herbs and bacteriae, which aid in the transforming of all organic waste materials into humus. Instructions for building a compost pile, and how to apply the bio-dynamic compost starter, are included with each package.

Price: - Per unit (enough for 1 ton of compost) $ 1.65 p.p.

Compost.

Our bio-dynamic compost is made of hen-manure, cow manure, old hay, weeds etc. The decomposing process is accelerated by sprinkling the pile with the b.d. compost starter, and by turning the pile at least twice. The finished product is a rich, black, uniform textured compost, an excellent plant food for lawns, gardens, and fields. We advise one pound of compost per square foot of area.

Price: - Per bushel, at the Gardens $ 2.00
(Inquire about ton prices!)

Earthworm Compost.

Underneath our barn is a "city" of 100,000 earthworms, feasting on potato peelings, grapefruit rinds, coffee grounds, egg shells, and waste material from plants and prunings. Our worms transform this vegetable and plant matter into the finest compost, especially recommended for house plants. Approximately one part of earthworm compost to five parts of potted soil will keep your plants happy.

Price: - Per 10 lb. bag (West of Mississippi add $ 1.00) . . . $ 2.50 p.p.

Potting Soil.

This is our own compost mixture, which we use in transplanting and potting in our greenhouse.

Price: - Per bushel, at the Gardens $ 2.50

Hybrotite.

Hybrotite is granite stone, crushed into a meal. It is a good soil conditioner and a fine source of natural potash. The silicate and its particle structure in hybrotite stimulate root growth in plants and aid aeration. Especially good for heavy and poorly drained soils.

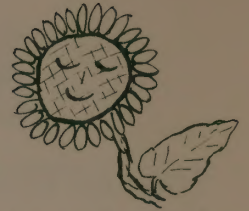

Price: - Per 50 lb. bag, at the Gardens $ 1.25

Buckwheat Hull Mulch.

Do you want your garden to be practically free of weeds all summer? Buckwheat hull mulch looks like rich brown earth, is easy to handle, and neat and clean. It will last for two seasons, as it decomposes slowly.

Price: - Per 50 lb. bag, at the Gardens $ 3.00

„Herbal Sprays An Ounce of Prevention.“

To help plants which are grown indoors, in greenhouses, and under abnormal conditions, we recommend the following herbal sprays. All herbs are sold in amounts to make one gallon of spray liquid. Make a strong "tea" using one quart of water per package of herbs - let steep about 15 minutes, then add balance of water.

Camomile (Matricaria chamomilla). For control of damping-off.

✓ Horsetail (Equisetum arvense). A good tonic against plant-diseases. (This herb must be boiled for 20 minutes!)

✓ Stinging Nettle (Urtica dioica). To control plant-diseases.

Sage (Salvia officinalis). Prophylactic means of disease control.

Price: - Per package $ -.60 p.p.

Valuable Plants: -

Horseradish (Armoracia rusticana). The companion for potatoes! Plant a root at each corner of your potato field.

Price: - Four roots $ 2.50 p.p.

Garden Heliotrope (Valeriana officinalis). For all those gardeners who want to make - from the blossoms - their own bio-dynamic preparation.

Price: - Per plant $ 1.50 p.p.

Stinging Nettle (Urtica dioica). This plant cannot be praised enough: As companion plant, animal fodder, source-material for plant sprays. It is a perennial.

Price: - Per plant $ 1.50 p.p.

Cow Tonic.

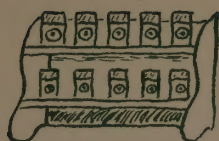

For many years, European farmers have been using Bio-dynamic Cow Tonic as a dairy feed supplement to aid digestion and improve the general health of the animal. The recipe for this herbal mixture came from a European farmer; it contains 23 herbs, the main ones being stinging nettle, blackberry and raspberry leaves, linden flowers, caraway, fennel, birch leaves, angelica root etc. It is used either in the form of a tea, sprayed onto the feed just before eating, or as a dry mixture, added to the feed. One teaspoonful (5-10 gr.) per cow per day is recommended.

Price: - Per pound $ 2.00 p.p.

Kale.

This is the first year we have dried this favorite herb of the Brassica family, and it is really beautiful. Only the tender leaf tops are harvested (no stems!). Add to soups, salads, stews, and meat-loaves for flavor, color, and extra vitamin A (kale is high in this vitamin). Blend a tsp. of kale with a quarter pound of butter for the children's sandwiches, or for breakfast toast.

Price: - Per package, 1½ oz (equals ca. 1 lb fresh kale)... $ -.60 p.p.

From our Herb Shop.

HERB OF THE YEAR.

F E N N E L
(Foeniculum vulgare)

Fennel, a fine feathery-leaved herb, is a member of the same family as dill, lovage, and parsley, which is the carrot or umbelliferous family. The seeds of fennel form in the second year, thus it is classed as a biennial. However, fennel that has been planted in early spring often produces some blossoms and seeds the first year, though not of excellent quality. In the plant's first year, its energy is concentrated on root growth. The following spring, growth begins again; the delicate, fern-like leaves giving way to tall stems, topped with yellow flower umbels. A spring feast for the bees! The seeds begin to ripen during the hot summer months, as all forces within the plant withdraw into the seeds. It is no wonder that such seeds have been used down through the centuries as a healing herb.

To grow fennel, sow the seed in rows, 24 inches apart, in the spring, when the soil is dry enough to work. Thin out to at least 5 inches. Keep the plants cultivated and free of weeds. By fall they will be fully grown. Before frost, dig the roots, and store them for the winter in a frost-free area. Wilting must be avoided. The following spring, set out the roots about two feet apart. Weeds will look insignificant beside them! Pinch off the tender side-leaves for salad greens. Use the fennel flowers together with dill flowers for pickling cucumbers.

To make your gardening easier, and to save you a year's time (!), we grew rows and rows of fennel in our North Field last summer. In the fall, the roots were dug and stored in our root cellar. Now, this spring, they are ready for you, for re-setting in your garden. With a minimum of effort, you may enjoy the feathery beauty of fennel in your flower and vegetable garden. Plant a fennel hedge for ornamental beauty, and be sure to plant three roots just outside your kitchen door, for making fennel butter for fish. When autumn comes again, harvest your own fennel seeds for winter tea, and Christmas cookies, and think of your Puritan ancestors who nibbled these aromatic "Meetin' seeds" in church.
